Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35

U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1, 4-8 and 10-14, drawn to a composition, classified in class 428, subclass 355EP.
- II. Claims 15, 16, 19, 20, 29-43, 44 and 45 drawn to a product, classified in class 257, subclass 783.
- III. Claims 21, 22, 24, 27 and 46-49 drawn to a process, classified in class 438, subclass 118.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process such as a process without pressing.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because claims to both the subcombination and combination are presented and assumed to be patentable, and the omission of details of the claimed subcombination in the combination claim is evidence that the patentability of the combination does not rely on the details of the specific subcombination. The subcombination has separate utility such as for use for bonding non-electronic components.

Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because claims to both the subcombination and combination are presented and assumed to be patentable, and the omission of details of the claimed subcombination in the combination claim is evidence that the patentability of the combination does not rely on the details of the specific subcombination. In particular, claim 46 is an evidence claim which indicates that the combination does not rely upon the specific details of the subcombination for its patentability. The subcombination has separate utility such as for use for bonding non-electronic components.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I, II or III is not required for the others of Groups I, II or III, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
